We got a complaint from a food truck company

(Devil's Pit BBQ, Kim Bell (owner)) that cities like SLC are still requiring excessive regulations despite your bill. I wanted to get your suggestion whether this is something you'd like to work or whether this is something that has merit for my team to review.

I hate to hear that. Is that something you guys have the authority to audit? Or do we work through the DOH or another state agency?

6/21/21, 4:54 PM

We could but it's not a high risk priority. It's likely government is overstepping and food truck is making assumptions too. Thought you might want to look into in, asking a few questions of the different parties. If you see a serious problem, my team could then consider prioritizing it.

6/21/21, 7:21 PM

Thanks. If you could forward me their email that could be helpful

I'll have it sent tomorrow.

Showed Mower a quick demo of our special K-12 performance audit (Project KIDS). Looking forward to showing to you in January.

Let me know what metrics you think are most important to judge k-12 performance from your perspective.

11/24/20, 9:26 AM

Great stuff. Mower was very impressed and I've been excited that you have been doing this. Really looking forward to seeing it.

We should talk higher ed too.

When I chaired HHS approps, I pointed out that USDC case workers had wages $2-3/hr below market but total compensation $4-5/hr above market. So, we were overpaying for high turnover, since they were more focused on wages.

Until we bring the state's benefit package in line with market, we will struggle with low wages or high total comp.

(I was just reading a SL Trib article)

Might want to check your Zoom filter before Board of Examiner meeting tomorrow. I heard your son wanted a cat. 🐱

To get to a 21st century workforce means eliminating the bureaucratic career service system, rebalancing compensation (from benefits to wages), and increasing flexibility. Let me know how I can help.

Will UT finally stop subsidizing water with taxes and go to market rates?

Hey!

Joel shared your conversation with me. Who on the hill is chatting about this stuff and how serious are they?

The org I work for just got selected as the first scholarship granting org for the state. But the founders are interested in supporting other solutions as well.

Remind me what the legal nature of UHSAA is.

Right now appears to be a private entity with a special duty to report certain financial reporting to my office.

Or do you mean...a troubling monopoly.

With the court ruling Friday that students can't be required to test to stay, many are asking if that also includes test to play and test to sway.

The question before the court was only about the education part, but the judge signaled it applies to all access.

So people are asking me how uhsaa can still impose it.

I guess I'm asking how they impose rules on public programs

Is there something really nefarious behind the hydrochloquine purchase from the state?

9/25/20, 3:32 PM

Is our state income tax rate 4.95%? I thought it was higher than that.

I misunderstood Curt. He wants suggestions for language but wants to hold off on the structure of county government for the general session.

Gotcha.

5/18/21, 8:43 AM

Brad Horrocks online. He is in Uinta County right?

Yes

What did you learn about Amelia?

Almost here.

5/18/21, 9:47 AM

How should I push on Horrocks?

Ask him to prepare a presentation for next meeting.

Dunnigan is going to do exactly that.

5/18/21, 11:06 AM

Just got information confirming that the presenter was not Brad Horrocks. I'm told it was Bill Stringer.

Weird.
